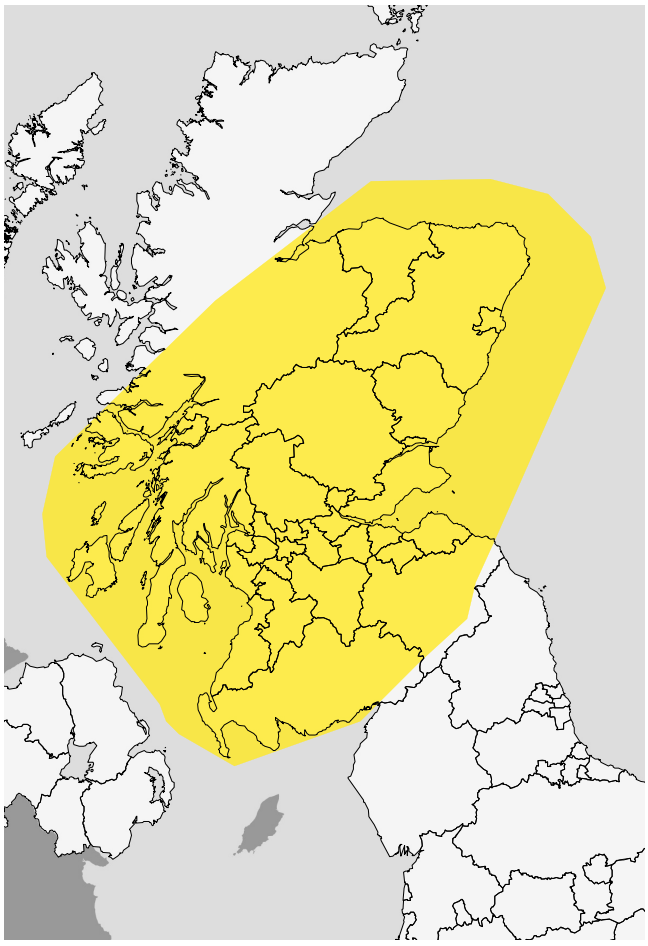
Yellow warning
Snow

Between
06:00 Mon 24 Feb 2020 and
21:00 Mon 24 Feb 2020



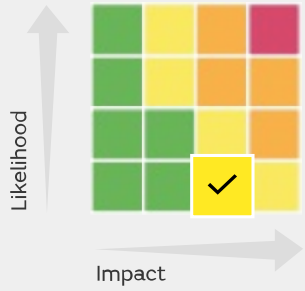
Snow may bring disruption, mainly on high ground, during the early morning rush hour

What to expect

- There is a small chance of travel delays on roads with some stranded vehicles and passengers, along with delayed or cancelled rail and air travel
- There is a slight chance that some rural communities could become cut off
- There is a small chance that power cuts will occur and other services, such as mobile phone coverage, may be affected

Further details

Snow is expected to spread northeastwards into Scotland early on Monday, perhaps even falling to low levels during the morning rush hour across and to the south of the Central Belt of Scotland, before spreading into the rest of the warning area. The snow may well turn to rain in the south of the area by the end of the morning, but further north, and especially on higher routes above 300 metres, significant accumulations of snow may occur during the afternoon and evening.



Very low likelihood of medium impacts
